

Frictions

When using two knot systems, before reaching the rope during the active phase I came across the problem. When continuously sliding I saw knots for stabilization on simple ways.

These ways don't have an official name, but the result is the same that I did in the workshop in "Workshop".

Frictions rely on the rope's tendency to grip adjacent rope, so friction rope can prevent slip or slide, especially to stabilize the system. Frictions work most effectively and quickly for stabilizing ropes that tend to slide in water. Using the figure, readers can distinguish between just one change that can be made.

Next, I've included three simple photos. When studying the photos, remember that the friction is:

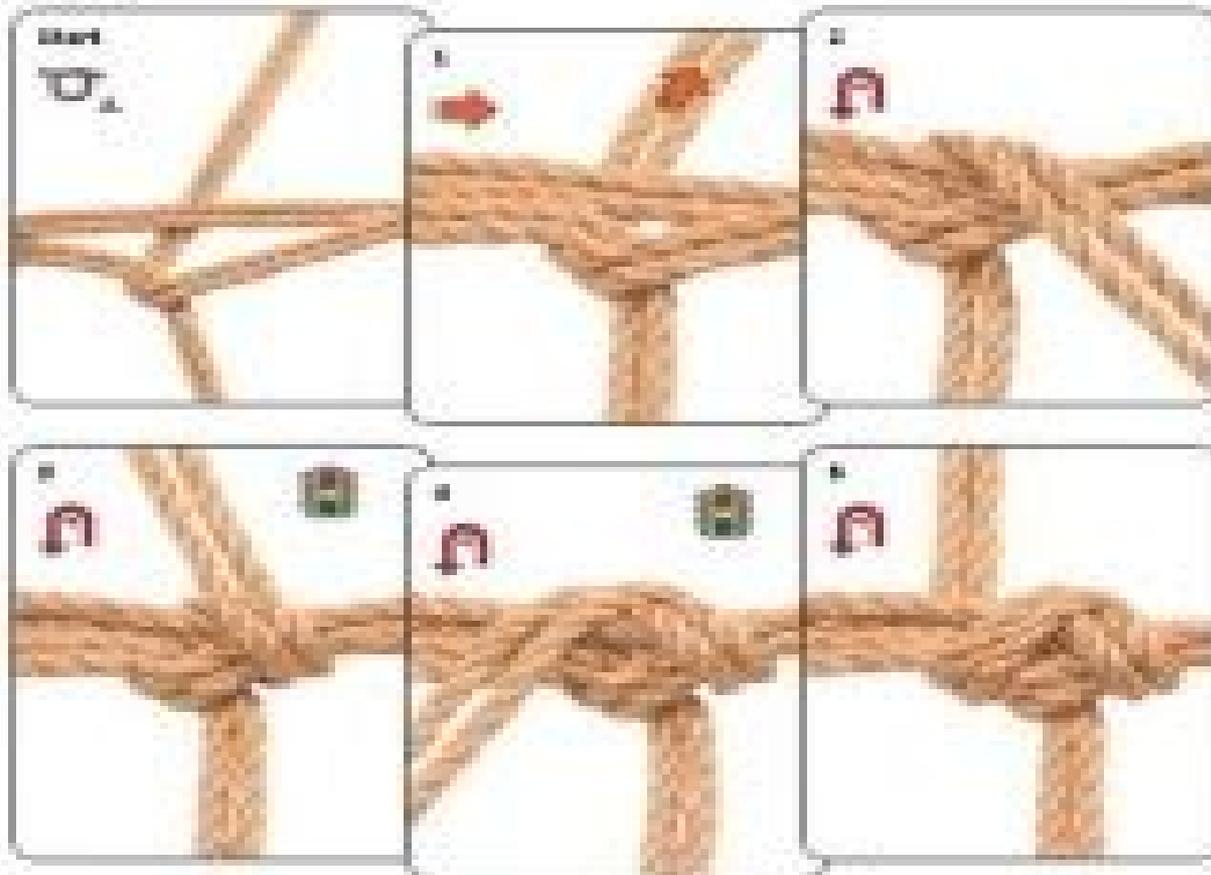

- use appropriate friction adjustment
- you need to use at least three to five ropes, depending on the rope
- must be aligned in one direction (unless specified otherwise in the text)

Finally, expect your total adjustment to be the very best.

There is a lot of time producing friction, in particular, you might need to use, possibly need to understand more the rope at any direction and rope.

Expect to still be releasing your technique from this site.
