Indigenous Fall Equinox

The fall equinox is when the sun hits the equator at a right angle. The word equinox comes from the Latin word "aequinoxius" meaning "equal days." The equinoxes occur approximately 93 days before and after the winter and summer solstices. The equinoxes are the only two times of the year when the day and night are of equal length. The fall equinox is the only time of the year when the sun is directly above the equator. The fall equinox is the only time of the year when the sun is directly above the equator.
