Applied Research And Evaluation Methods In Recreation:

Applied Research and Evaluation Methods in Recreation Diane Blankenship, 2010 Applied Research and Evaluation Methods in Recreation is the only text that integrates research evaluation and basic statistical analysis and links these concepts directly to the recreation field Using a logical format and accessible language the book provides students with the foundational knowledge they need in order to move through the research process They ll explore the various types of research commonly used in the field including qualitative quantitative and action research and then learn about the steps involved in designing a project from developing the research problem reviewing literature and identifying variables and hypotheses to defining the population to study developing the instrumentation plan and choosing the appropriate data collection tools Then they ll move on to evaluation concepts including internal validity data analysis and reporting methods The author s approach to the material makes this textbook truly unique Each chapter builds on the previous one to clearly explain the steps of the research process and show how all of the concepts are interrelated Students will learn not only why the steps and concepts are important but also how they relate specifically to the field Each chapter closes with features that help students apply what they ve learned a case study exercises and For the Investigator an ongoing research project that uses a hypothetical recreation survey to give students realistic practice in recreation research The text contains many other features that will help students better understand and apply the concepts they ve learned Chapter opening scenarios offer examples of the kinds of research that students might be expected to undertake Objectives highlight the key points of each chapter and a glossary offers easy access to definitions of unfamiliar terms Professional Perspectives sidebars describe real research projects from current professionals with an explanation of the project s importance to the organization Applied Research and Evaluation Methods in Recreation includes an online student resource OSR which provides additional opportunities for students to apply the information they ve learned Ancillaries for instructors instructor guide presentation package and test package are also available The student and instructor ancillaries are available online at www.HumanKinetics.com/AppliedResearchandEvaluationMethodsInRecreation Applied Research and Evaluation Methods in Recreation Diane Blankenship, 2010 Research Methods for Leisure, Recreation and Tourism, 2nd Edition Ercan Sirakaya-Turk, Muzaffer Uysal, William E Hammitt, Jerry J Vaske, 2017-04-13 Describing the fundamental elements of research methods for leisure recreation and tourism this new edition of a popular textbook is updated throughout It covers the measurement of variables sampling questionnaire design and evaluation methods and also a wider discussion of writing proposals communicating research findings cross cultural research and the use of new technologies in conducting research Written by internationally renowned researchers in an accessible style this book introduces both undergraduate and graduate students to the vital skills they will need to succeed in the leisure recreation tourism and hospitality industries Journal of Health, Physical Education, Recreation ,1963 Journal of Physical Education, Recreation & Dance ,1993

'Cultural Life', Disability, Inclusion and Citizenship Simon Darcy, Jerome F. Singleton, 2016-02-05 Disability is a complex multidimensional social construct where the type of disability and the level of support of individuals needs to be considered within leisure provision In a leisure context people with a disability often face a multitude of constraints to participation However when leisure is possible the benefits are substantial and worth pursuing While other marginalised populations have received a great deal of attention across disciplines and in the field of leisure and recreation disability has received comparatively less attention and generally in isolation to the leisure context This book concentrates on disability citizenship in leisure The chapters focus on examining the leisure lives of people with different types of disability by supporting their leisure endeavours through innovations in technology service provision and the imagination Each chapter has a different social setting involves different groups of people with disability and challenges conventional wisdom about what is possible when ability is seen nurtured and then flourishing with the opportunities provided Rather than leisure being seen in isolation the context of this book explores leisure as part of everyday lives through valuing Management issues that centre on constraints to sport participation supply side attributes participant behaviours consumption of disability sport policy implementation and sponsor congruence We situate the book in the context of further challenging researchers to think beyond disability as a context in their research and engagement of the person as a citizen in leisure opportunities as opposed to a disability This book was published as a special issue of Annals of Leisure Research Courses Catalog - University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 1986 Includes undergraduate and graduate courses
