K. Patell, Deborah Lindsay Williams, 2024-03-05 The Oxford History of the Novel in English is a twelve volume series presenting a comprehensive global and up to date history of English language prose fiction written by a large international team of scholars The series is concerned with novels as a whole not just the literary novel and each volume includes chapters on the processes of production distribution and reception and on popular fiction and the fictional sub genres as well as outlining the work of major novelists movements and tendencies This book offers an account of US fiction during a period demarcated by two traumatic moments the eve of the entry of the United States into the Second World War and the onset of the Covid 19 pandemic The aftermath of the Second World War was arguably the high point of US nationalism but in the years that followed US writers would increasingly explore the possibility that US democracy was a failure both at home and abroad For so many of the writers whose work this volume explores the idea of nation became suspect as did the idea of national literature as the foundation for US writing Looking at post 1940s writing the literary historian might well chart a movement within literary cultures away from nationalism and toward what we would call cosmopolitanism a perspective that fosters conversations between the occupants of different cultural spaces and that regards difference as an opportunity to be embraced rather than a problem to be solved During this period the novel has had significant competition for the US public's attention from other forms of narrative and media film television comic books videogames and the internet and the various forms of social media that it spawned If however the novel becomes a residual form during this period it is by no means

archaic The novel has been reinvigorated over the past eighty years by its encounters with both emergent forms such as film television comic books and digital media and the emergent voices typically associated with multiculturalism in the United States Recontextualizing Resistance Emily Golson,2018-01-23 Resistance is a concept that rose to the forefront of several areas of study when Max Weber made careful distinctions between authority force violence domination and legitimation It gained strong attention when the well known Palestinian journalist activist fiction writer and critic Ghassan Kanafani 1936 1972 published a study entitled the Literature of Resistance in Occupied Palestine 1948 1966 a work that contributed to postcolonial theories of power race ethnicity and gender and second generation theories of orientalism feminism and disability Initially identified by philosophers historians and social critics as a focal point for situations in which oppressors brutally destroy the identity or subjectivity of the oppressed resistance has been transformed by fiction writers filmmakers lyricists and speechmakers into a process in which responses and counter responses to some type of injustice create difficult situations with complicated nuances These works now form the foundation for what has come to be recognized as resistance art This book gathers the insight knowledge and wisdom found in different manifestations of this art to further our understanding of the impact of resistance on contemporary life

Nahr has been confined to the Cube, nine square metres of glossy grey cinderblock devoid of time, its patterns of light and dark, nothing to do with day and night. Journalists visit her but get nowhere because Nahr is not going to share her story with them. The world outside calls Nahr a terrorist and a whore; some might call her a revolutionary or a hero. But the truth is Nahr has always been many things and had many names. She was named for the river her pregnant mother crossed when she fled from Palestine, but her feckless father called her Yaqoot Ruby. For a time when she came of age she was Almas Diamond, a girl who went to hidden parties in Kuwait with powerful men who sold off parts of herself to keep her family together. She was a girl who learned early and painfully that when you are a second-class citizen, love is a kind of desperation she learned above all else to survive. She was a girl who went to Palestine in the wrong shoes and without looking for it found what she had always lacked in the basement of a battered beauty parlour: purpose, politics, friends. She found a dark-eyed man called Bilal who taught her to resist, who tried to save her when it was already too late. Nahr sits in the Cube and tells her story to Bilal, Bilal who isn't there, Bilal who may not even be alive but who is her only reason to get out. □□□□□□□□, 2011 Britannica Book of the Year, 2011
