II. Referral Information

CyCy was referred to undergo a psychological assessment for anxiety. CyCy tends to worry about many things, even minor things, and she continues to worry even if she knows it is not a big deal. She is experiencing physical symptoms of anxiety, such as hyperventilation, being easily fatigued, and muscle tension. She also mentioned that she experiences these symptoms in an open space or a large crowd. She has been experiencing these symptoms for more than six months. Moreover, she also mentioned that she is dealing with depressive mood, irritability, and anger management problems. She described these experiences as 'extremely severe.'

This psychological assessment is done to evaluate CyCy's symptoms, relevant history, and to come up with a diagnosis if warranted. This assessment will also determine the extent of how disabling her symptoms are.

Psychological Report Writing Theory And Practice:

Psychological Report Writing Joseph William Hollis, Patsy A. Donn, 1979 Psychological Report Writing Joseph William Hollis, Patsy A. Donn, 1973 Clinician's Guide To Neuropsychological Assessment Rodney D. Vanderploeg, 2014-04-04 Neuropsychological assessment is a difficult and complicated process Often experienced clinicians as well as trainees and students gloss over fundamental problems or fail to consider potential sources of error Since formal test data on the surface appear unambiguous and objective they may fall into the habit of overemphasizing tests and their scores and underemphasizing all the factors that affect the validity reliability and interpretability of test data But interpretation is far from straightforward and a pragmatic application of assessment results requires attention to a multitude of issues This long awaited updated and greatly expanded second edition of the Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment like the first focuses on the clinical practice of neuropsychology Orienting readers to the entire multitude of issues it guides them step by step through evaluation and helps them avoid common misconceptions mistakes and methodological pitfalls It is divided into three sections fundamental elements of the assessment process special issues settings and populations and new approaches and methodologies The authors all of whom are actively engaged in the clinical practice of neuropsychological assessment as well as in teaching and research do an outstanding job of integrating the academic and the practical The Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment Second Edition will be welcomed as a text for graduate courses but also as an invaluable hands on handbook for interns postdoctoral fellows and experienced neuropsychologists alike No other book offers its combination of breadth across batteries and approaches depth and practicality Psychological Report Writing Joseph William Hollis, Patsy A. Donn, 1979 Psychological Reports Raymond L. Ownby, 1997-02-05 Provides a systematic approach to writing psychological reports for optimal clarity thoroughness and impact A clinical report should have all the clarity and precision of a military dispatch Unfortunately as anyone who deals with psychological reports knows this is almost never the case Extensive research has shown that with most psychologist's reports there is a dangerously wide gap between author intent and reader interpretation Since the quality of clinical reports can have a direct bearing on the quality of care a client receives especially in an age of managed care it is essential that psychologists arm themselves with a systematic approach to creating reports that in structure content and style have the utmost clarity thoroughness and utility Psychological Reports Third Edition provides them with such an approach The book begins with a theory based analysis of report writing problems which is then used to construct a framework for identifying and correcting them A valuable working resource for practicing psychologists and psychotherapists Psychological Reports Third Edition is also must reading for students and psychologists in training A complete guide to writing effective reports for a variety of contexts Updated to correspond to recent changes in the DSM IV Includes practice exercises that help readers build report writing skills Features sample reports representing a wide range of applications Writing and Reading Mental

Health Records J. Frederick Reynolds, David C. Mair, Pamela C. Fischer, 2013-12-02 This revised and updated second edition is a rhetorical analysis of written communication in the mental health community As such it contributes to the growing body of research being done in rhetoric and composition studies on the nature of writing and reading in highly specialized professional discourse communities Many compelling questions answered in this volume include What ideological biases are reflected in the language the nurse rhetorician uses to talk to and talk about the patient How does language figure into the process of constructing meaning in this context What social interactions with the patient with other nurses with physicians influence the nurse s attempt to construct meaning in this context How do the readers of assessment construct their own meanings of the assessment Based on an ongoing collaboration between composition studies specialists and mental health practitioners this book presents research of value not only to writing scholars and teachers but also to professional clinicians their teachers and those who read mental health records in order to make critically important decisions It can also be valuable as a model for other scholars to follow when conducting similar long range studies of other writing intensive professions
