Generally though meal prepping refers to preparing 3-7 days worth of food at a time Think of it like keeping your lunches for the week all at once instead of keeping your lunch for the week You can use this same technique for breakfast lunch dinner and snacks Meal prepping doesn't necessarily waste and reduce time to eat outside unless whether the plan is a diet or a budget When keeping your meal prepped day after day the question is how long will you be able to eat homemade meals without having to do it every day? Meal prepping is not for everyone It is good for those who value convenience and for those who have more time than others With meal prepping you generally eat the same thing for a few days in a row so if you don't like leftovers or get bored with food meal prepping isn't for you If having nutritious meals that maximize your time and budget is more valuable to you than doing something different every day meal prepping is a great idea I've generally not seen a meal prep for the month or maybe one other person do a whole month Meal prepping for a whole month would be quite difficult but the more you do it the more you'll be able to do it Meal prepping is a slow process in itself In addition to the way food is packed the individual nuances of your refrigerator can impact the usefulness of your refrigerated meal storage the length of time it's acceptable to have a certain texture and flavor will be a big factor for the eater Always begin with the refrigerator guidelines that the FDA and then evaluate them against your own preferences In general
