Report card comments – Unit of Inquiry (UOI) ( Sample)

Girls

XXXXXXXXXXXX has conceptualised the unit since this term. She is encouraged to respond to the learning engagements in class but the learning she gets out of that is rather limited. With guidance, she has started to share relevant information and should try to increase contribution to group discussions. In the unit 'Feelings', XXXXXXXXXXXXXXX could identify her own feelings and find ways of expressing her emotions. She participated whole heartedly in group activities as well as individual tasks. She thoroughly enjoyed recording her feelings on the her chart every morning without fail. She developed her social and communication skills through group activities, however, was still keen on giving her reports when she had to work with her team to meet and present responsible ways of expressing emotions. In the unit 'Products', XXXXXXXXXXXXXXX could use things like 'How/ Material/ Measurement' finished with some kind of holding. She found the story of chocolate very interesting and tried to trace back the stages of production. She developed her research skills while creating her own research booklet on Milk to her class. She was effectively able to reason why products are consumed, but found the prescriptive assessment of selecting, listing and recording the production of a product challenging. During our unit 'Family History', XXXXXXXXXXXXXXX was excited to see the explanation comes. She looked at all the objects with curiosity and wondered why they were there. Her skills of questioning and interpreting were developed during this unit. She would benefit from focusing on recording relevant information. She understood that old things are preserved as a memory and to know about the history of a family.
