Safer Homes, Stronger Communities Abhas K. Jha,Jennifer Duyne Barenstein,Priscilla M. Phelps,Daniel Pittet,Stephen Sena,2010-01-15 Best practices in post disaster housing and community reconstruction are constantly evolving The frequency and severity of disasters are increasing and technology is changing how reconstruction is done Reconstruction projects must increasingly focus on the need to reduce future risks by ensuring that what is rebuilt is safer and more disaster resilient than what was there before The expanding role of communities in managing community reconstruction with financial and technical assistance from government is another way reconstruction is changing Safer Homes Stronger Communities is a handbook that gives policy makers and project managers the information they need to plan and carry out housing and community reconstruction projects that empower communities affected by disasters and that reduce their vulnerability to future disasters The handbook includes nearly 100 case studies collected from global experts with recent experience in housing reconstruction that illustrate how the policies and practical approaches recommended in the handbook have been used on the ground It also includes links to extensive technical information on the topics covered by the handbook and is complemented by a Web site for practitioners in the field <http://www.housingreconstruction.org> Designed to provide immediate guidance in post disaster reconstruction settings Safer Homes Stronger Communities is a vital resource for policy makers and project managers and for all practitioners involved in post disaster housing and community reconstruction and disaster risk management Participatory Communication Thomas Tufte, Paolo Mefalopulos, 2009-07-02 What do we mean when we say participatory communication What are the practical implications of working with participatory communication strategies in development and social change processes What experiences exist in practice that documents that participatory communication adds value to a development project or programme The aim of this user guide on participatory communication is to provide answers to some of these questions Many communication practitioners and development workers face obstacles and challenges in their practical work A participatory communication strategy offers a very specific perspective on how to articulate social processes decision making processes and any change process for that matter Participatory approaches are nothing new However what is new is the proliferation of institutions especially governmental but also non governmental that seek participatory approaches in their development initiative This guide seeks to provide perspectives tools and experiences regarding how to go about it with participatory communication strategies It is conceived as a guide that hopefully can be of relevance and utility for development workers in the field It is targeted at both at government and their officials World Bank staff and at civil society

Community-Based Landslide Risk Reduction Malcolm G.
