How did he create the world's largest and most successful hedge fund? How did he manage over 150 billion USD? In a word, principles. Ray Dalio created a set of principles for himself and refined them as an operating management philosophy and radical transparency thriving with the idea of meritocracy. An idea meritocracy system that brings together the most productive people with the best collective thinking and allows them to do their best work. This book is about something that means a lot to me: the idea of meritocracy. It tracks the evolution of the world's largest hedge fund and its decision-making process because it requires honesty and leads to continual improvement. I divided the principles into Life Principles and Work Principles. The life principles apply to individual and the work principles guide you to share your thoughts and discover and write their principles and refine them through experience and reflection. I believe good principles lead people to better mutual understanding and superior outcomes.
