Advances in Home Care Technologies Kenneth J. Turner, 2012 An ageing population is burdening social and healthcare services around the world and this problem is likely to get worse as the percentage of older people continues to rise Many governments are already responding to this challenge and a key element in their strategies is the development and deployment of computer based telecare and telehealth technologies to support care at home in a cost effective manner Human involvement in care continues to be central but home care technologies can offer reassurance and support routine aspects to the benefit of all concerned This book provides an up to date overview of key advances in the relevant

Technology and Aging A. Mihailidis, J. Boger, H. Kautz, 2008-01-17 This publication presents articles on Aging in Place Assistive Technology Monitoring and Telehealth Transportation and Mobility and Design The section on assistive technology AT represents arguably the most mature and generic aspect of technology and aging except that AT can hardly be regarded really as a specific discipline any longer Assistive devices and systems command an expansive gamut of technological and engineering specialties drawing upon mechanical engineering and industrial design at one end of the field and cybernetic systems engineering and brain computer user interfaces at the other The largest section in the book on monitoring and telehealth reveals novel applications of advanced pattern recognition techniques some of which have up to now found roles primarily in the military process engineering and financial sectors Transportation and mobility still represents by far the largest and most commercially lucrative market segment of technology for seniors There is however a clear trend towards synthesis of information and communication technologies ICT and mobility technologies which is embodied in the latest developments of automatic collision avoidance and full or semi autonomous navigation functions in powered mobility devices The last section is dedicated to design issues It is proposed that designing for the special needs market before making a design as inclusive as possible to the mainstream market is a viable alternative to the currently accepted notion of inclusive design provided that aesthetics are appropriately addressed To conclude we see a social shift from institutional to home based care in which information communication technology based solutions now afford the possibility of aging in place for the many thousands of people having mild to moderate cognitive impairment Workshop Proceedings of the 8th
