important performance related outcomes has become ever more popular and prevalent within elite level soccer clubs in the past decade as teams look to gain psychological as well as physiological advantages over their competitors The Psychology of Soccer seeks to present the detailed understanding of the theories underpinning the psychological issues relating to soccer along with practical insights into effective psychological interventions and strategies This book uses contemporary theory and research to elucidate key concepts and applied interventions It includes world leading expert commentaries of contemporary theoretical and applied approaches in understanding critical issues in soccer and provides practical implications and insights into working effectively in soccer related contexts The Psychology of Soccer is an evidence based resource to guide research and facilitate practice and will be a vital resource for researchers practitioners and coaches within the area of sport psychology and related disciplines Sport, Exercise, and Performance Psychology Angus Mugford, J. Gualberto Cremades, 2018-09-26 This book brings together world class professionals to share theoretical understanding applied to sport exercise and performance domains It highlights how to be more effective in developing psychological skills context and understanding for educators students and professionals From both academic and practitioner perspectives this book takes readers through contextual understanding of this field of study and into a wide variety of important areas Specifically the chapters focus on the mind body relationship and performance challenges and on core mental skills applied across different sport exercise and performance examples including professional athletes normal exercise populations and military service members The final section expands the context into the role of relationships and performance in group settings to cover a broad practice of modern day applied performance psychology An Investigation of Burnout of Intercollegiate Athletes Allison Margaret Eades, 1990 Athlete Burnout Daniel J. Madigan, Henrik Gustafsson, Luke F. Olsson, J D DeFreese, 2025-12-26 Athlete Burnout Recognition Prevention and Management provides the first contemporary account of athlete burnout Drawing on academic literature from both inside and outside of sport this book focuses on providing the tools necessary to understand and recognise the symptoms of athlete burnout It also informs practice by providing evidence based intervention strategies to aid in the prevention and management of athlete burnout Written in a concise user friendly and accessible format for athletes and coaches this book provides novel insights for practitioners students and academics alike interested in athlete health and sport psychology Contemporary Athletics Compendium James Harry Humphrey, 2008 Athletics also known as track and field or track and field athletics is a collection of sports events that involve running throwing and jumping This book presents recent articles on athletics and issues related to athletes Athlete Burnout Among High School Drill Team Members Tayler Jackson, 2025 High school drill team is an intensive year round sport that exposes athletes to heightened risk of burnout yet little research has examined this issue within the drill community This study investigated burnout among 59 recently graduated drill team athletes in the Rocky Mountain region using the Athlete Burnout Questionnaire ABQ The ABQ measured emotional physical exhaustion reduced sense of accomplishment and sport devaluation with results analyzed through descriptive statistics one way ANOVA and thematic coding of open ended responses Findings showed that emotional and physical exhaustion was the most prevalent form of burnout with 83.1% of athletes reporting moderate to high levels Reduced accomplishment 32.2% and sport devaluation 28.8% were less frequent suggesting many athletes are in the early stages of burnout Qualitative data highlighted coaching issues and overwhelming time demands as the leading contributors These results suggest that burnout is shaped less by school size or competition level and more by workload management recovery opportunities and coach athlete dynamics Recommendations include structured rest balanced training and autonomy supportive coaching to safeguard athlete well being Journal of Sport & Exercise Psychology, 2008

Research Quarterly for Exercise and Sport, 2009 Literature Reviews in Sport Psychology Sheldon Hanton, 2006 Sport Psychology research has developed and expanded considerably over the last decade or two Its accelerating volume of research output embraces a wide variety of topics having both academic and practical impact and relating to other areas of Sports Science and also the broader overall discipline of mainstream psychology In this busy and developing arena the healthy and productive evolution of a research topic requires the periodic summarisation reflection and feedback that is the domain of the literature review A review acts as the primary catalyst for a topic s emerging organisation reorganisation and structure and generates perspectives and pointers for further study directions it establishes reference points and foundations for continued progress By its very nature it tends to be a larger publication than a typical focused research paper The pathways to publication of Sport Psychology research are often severely congested For example in 2004 four of the main refereed outlets for original research in Sport Psychology The Sport Psychologist the Journal of Applied Sport Psychology the Journal of Sport and Exercise Psychology and the Psychology of Sport and Exercise received over 400 submissions private communications Inevitably the space that established journals can afford to grant to review articles is limited both in terms of the article size and the frequency with which topics can be visited Although reviews that appear in books usually enjoy a larger and more appropriate space allocation they typically have not carried the hallmark of external independent peer review that journal publication provides This collection presents a number of contemporary reviews of significant and popular topics from some prominent researchers within each area An important and distinctive feature of this volume is that all the chapters have been subjected to peer review by expert referees a process usually reserved solely for journal publications This book offers up to date literature reviews with a distinctive conceptual theoretical and practical focus the environmental demands of this occupation several studies have been conducted to investigate how various factors may influence the careers health and potential burnout of these practitioners e g Kania Meyer Kahanov Eberman Deci Raedeke Pelletier et al 1995 and the Work Need Satisfaction Survey WNSS Deci Connell however 61 1% of the variance in the T1 total burnout scores could be explained by number of days off per week amotivation identified regulation and perceived autonomy Finally while these ATs did not score particularly high on burnout their supervisors should be still be aware of the symptoms and treatment methods for this condition In addition managers should also encourage ATs to take time away from work to tend to their needs Lastly through BPN satisfaction more self determined forms of motivation should develop as a result

Interpersonal, Individual, and Situational Factors Associated with Burnout in Student Athletes Alexis James Vlahos,1997 The Relationship Between Burnout, Motivation, and Exercise Habits in Retired College Athletes Jenna Hering,2022 The effect of sport burnout on retired college athletes has not been widely researched However there are several studies that show sport burnout is present in athletes and can be influenced by different factors including motivation Also studies have shown that physical activity plays an important role in any college aged person and can decrease in former college athletes in retirement Therefore the purpose of this research was to review athlete burnout motivation specialization and exercise habits in retired college athletes Participants recently retired within two years and played at least one full season filled out the Athlete Burnout Questionnaire ABQ International Physical Activity Questionnaire Short Form IPAQ SF Sport Motivation Scale SMS and demographic questionnaires voluntarily Athletes were recruited via email blast to the UCO student body Pearson s Product Momentum Correlation was conducted to see if there was any relationship between the variables A significant relationship did not exist between any of the variables p 05 therefore a multiple regression was not used to further analyze The researcher hypothesized that motivation would show a strong relationship with exercise habits burnout would show a strong relationship with decreased exercise habits and sports specialization would show a strong relationship with decreased exercise habits and increased burnout in retired college athletes The researcher concluded there was no relationship between burnout motivation specialization and exercise habits in this population Further research is suggested to investigate other relationships like coach s influence on burnout and observing burnout at different points of athlete s careers
