One of the key methods of reducing and dealing with criminal activity is to accurately gauge and then analyse the geographical distribution of crime from small scale to large scale areas. Once the police and government know what areas suffer most from criminal activity they can assess why this is the case and then deal with it in the most effective way. Community Policing and Problem Solving Kenneth J. Peak, Ronald W. Glensor, 2002. For courses in Community Policing and Problem Solving, Police in America, Police Community Relations, Police or Criminal Justice Administration. Unique in perspective and comprehensive in coverage, this text fills a gap in the literature by providing an exceptionally up to date and scholarly synthesis of the collective nationwide experience in implementing both community policing and problem oriented policing. It explains the processes and terms in detail, what they mean and how they are applied, as well as how they are implemented and evaluated. It explores both historical and operational perspectives and provides examples of existing strategies and future considerations. Author team has over 35 years combined police service and 25 years of academic experience.
