

10. If you are given different frequency table, which method will be the most appropriate?

Answer:

1. If the data is given in frequency table, then we will use the following method:

Example: The following table represents the distribution of marks obtained by 100 students in the 10th class. Use the data to draw a pie chart.

Answer:

1. In the graph, the height of rectangular bars is called the height of the bar representing the number of items in each category.

Example: The following bar graph shows the number of items in each category. Use the graph to determine the number of items in each category.

Answer:

2. In a histogram, the height of each bar represents the frequency of the corresponding class. Therefore, the bars represent classes and their height are corresponding values. The bars touch each other.
