They alter the sequence of the DNA. | Gene Expression <hr/> Read the passage carefully before answering the questions that follow. Gene expression is a complex process that involves many steps, from the transcription of DNA into messenger RNA (mRNA) to the translation of mRNA into a protein. The process begins with the binding of transcription factors to specific regions of DNA, which control the rate of transcription. These factors facilitate the recruitment of RNA polymerase II, which then synthesizes the primary transcript. This primary transcript is then processed into a mature mRNA molecule through a series of steps, including 5' capping, splicing, and 3' polyadenylation. The mature mRNA is then transported to the cytoplasm, where it is translated by ribosomes into a protein. The protein then folds into its functional shape and may undergo further modifications, such as phosphorylation or glycosylation, before it is ready to perform its function. Reproductive modification steps, such as methylation and acetylation, can affect gene expression by altering the accessibility of DNA to transcription factors. Methylation of DNA is a reversible process that can be inherited from one generation to the next. It is often associated with gene silencing, as it can prevent transcription factors from binding to their target sites. Acetylation of histones, on the other hand, is associated with gene activation, as it can increase the accessibility of DNA to transcription factors. Epigenetic modifications, such as DNA methylation and histone acetylation, are heritable changes that can affect gene expression without altering the DNA sequence. These modifications are often associated with specific cellular functions and can be influenced by environmental factors. For example, stress and diet can affect the levels of DNA methylation and histone acetylation in certain tissues, leading to changes in gene expression and potentially to disease. Answer the questions below for each question. 52. Which process is primarily responsible for producing the mRNA molecule? a. Translationb. Transcriptionc. Replicationd. Mitosis 53. What is the primary function of the transcription factor during gene expression? a. Protein synthesisb. Gene expressionc. DNA replicationd. Cell division 54. What is the primary function of a transcription factor? a. Protein synthesisb. Gene expressionc. DNA replicationd. Cell division |
