Major Tax Categories

Taxes serve as the lifeblood of modern governments, funding public services and infrastructure. While details vary by country, four major tax categories dominate fiscal systems: income, sales, property, and excise taxes. Income taxes are levied on individual or corporate earnings, often via tiered brackets that increase rates as income rises. Sales taxes apply a set percentage to the purchase price of goods and services at the point of sale, making them visible to consumers. Property taxes are assessed on the value of land and buildings, with rates set by local
