The Unknown Soldier Väinö Linna, 1957 The author tells of Finland's resistance to encroachment during World War II the men who fought and the price they paid

The Cinema of Scandinavia Tytti Soila, 2005 Modernism and the Architecture of Private Life offers a bold new assessment of the role of the domestic sphere in modernist literature architecture and design Elegantly synthesizing modernist literature with architectural plans room designs and decorative art Victoria Rosner's work explores the collaborations among modern British writers interior designers and architects in redefining the form function and meaning of middle class private life Drawing on a host of previously unexamined archival sources and works by figures such as E M Forster Roger Fry Oscar Wilde James McNeill Whistler and Virginia Woolf Rosner highlights the participation of modernist literature in the creation of an experimental embodied and unstructured private life which we continue to characterize as modern

Making Nordic Historiography Pertti Haapala, Marja Jalava, Simon Larsson, 2017-09-01 Is there a Nordic history If so what are its origins its scope and its defining features In this informative volume scholars from all five Nordic nations tackle a notoriously problematic historical concept Whether recounting Foucault's departure from Sweden or tracing the rise of movements such as aristocratic empiricism each contribution takes a deliberately transnational approach that is grounded in careful research yielding rich nuanced perspectives on shifting and contested historical terrain

Nordic War Stories Marianne Stecher-Hansen, 2021-02-03 Situated on Europe's northern periphery Denmark Finland Iceland Norway and Sweden found themselves caught between warring powers during World War II Ultimately these nations survived the conflict as sovereign states whose wartime experiences have profoundly shaped their historiography literature cinema and memory cultures Nordic War Stories explores the commonalities and divergences among the five Nordic countries examining national historiographies alongside representations of the war years in canonical literary works travel writing and film media Together they comprise a valuable companion that challenges the myth of Scandinavian homogeneity while demonstrating the powerful influence that the war continues to exert on national identities

Collective Traumas Conny Mithander, 2007 Collective Traumas is about the traumatic European history of the 20th century war genocide dictatorship ethnic cleansing and how individuals communities and nations have dealt with their dark past through remembrance historiography and legal settlements Memories and especially collective memories serve as foundations for national identities and are politically charged. Regardless whether memory is used to support or to challenge established ideologies it is inevitably subject to political tensions. Consequently memory history and amnesia tend to be used and abused for different political and ideological purposes. From the perspectives of historical literary and visual studies the essays focus on how the experiences of war and profound conflict have been represented and remembered in different national cultures and communities. This volume is a vital contribution to memory studies and trauma theory. Collective Traumas is a result of the multidisciplinary research project on Memory Culture that was initiated in 2002 at Karlstad University Sweden. A previous publication with Peter Lang is Memory Work: The Theory and Practice of Memory 2005.

Continued Violence and Troublesome Pasts Ville Kivimäki, Petri Karonen, 2017-09-07. In most European countries the horrific legacy of 1939-1945 has made it difficult to remember the war with much glory. Despite the Anglo-American memory narrative of saving democracy from totalitarianism and the Soviet epic of the Great Patriotic War the fundamental experience of war for many Europeans was that of immense personal losses and often meaningless hardships. The volume at hand focuses on these histories between the victors on the cases of Hungary, Estonia, Poland, Austria, Finland and Germany and on the respective often gendered experiences of defeat. The chapters underline the asynchronous transition to peace in individual experiences when compared to the smoother timelines of national and international historiographies. Instead of a linear chronology both personal and collective histories tend to return back to the moments of violence and loss thus forming continuous cycles of remembrance and forgetting. Several of the contributors also pay attention to the constructed and contested nature of national histories in these cycles. The role of these in between countries and even more their peoples' multifaceted experiences adds to the widening comparative European history of the aftermath thereby challenging the conventional dichotomies and periodisations in national historiographies. In the aftermath of the 70th anniversary of 1945 it is still unfortunately too early to regard the post-war period as mere history; the memory politics and rhetoric of the Second World War and its aftermath are still being used and abused to serve contemporary power politics in Europe. National
