Names for the Sea Sarah Moss, 2013-05-01 A beautifully written memoir of a family's year living in Reykjavik Iceland that captures the fierce beauty of the Arctic landscape from the acclaimed author of Ghost Wall Booklist Sarah Moss had a childhood dream of moving to Iceland sustained by a wild summer there when she was nineteen In 2009 she saw an advertisement for a job at the University of Iceland and applied on a whim despite having two young children and a comfortable life in Kent England The resulting adventure was shaped by Iceland's economic collapse which halved the value of her salary by the eruption of the volcano Eyjafjallajokull and by a collection of new friends including a poet who saw the only bombs fall on Iceland in 1943 a woman who speaks to elves and a chef who guided Sarah's family around the intricacies of Icelandic cuisine Moss explored hillsides of boiling mud and volcanic craters and learned to drive like an Icelander on the unsurfaced roads that link remote farms and fishing villages in the far north She watched the northern lights and the comings and goings of migratory birds and as the weeks and months went by she and her family learned new ways to live Names for the Sea is her compelling and very funny account of living in a country poised on the edge of Europe where modernization clashes with living folklore epochs The book's central argument is that the contemporary English novel draws on the constructivist paradigm shift that revolutionised the academic study of childhood several decades ago Contemporary works of fiction Dinter argues depart from the notion of childhood as a naturally given phase of life and examine the agent's interests and conflicts involved in its cultural production Dinter also considers the limits of this new theoretical impetus observing that authors and scholars alike even when they claim to conceive of childhood as a construct do not always give up on the idea of its natural core Accordingly this book reconstructs how the English novel between the 1980s and the 2010s oscillates between an acknowledgment of constructivism and an endorsement of childhood as the last irrevocable quintessence of humanity In doing so it successfully extends the literary and cultural history of childhood to the immediate present
