Debating Self Knowledge:

Debating Self-Knowledge Anthony Brueckner, Gary Ebbs, 2012-06-21 Language users ordinarily suppose that they know what thoughts their own utterances express We can call this supposed knowledge minimal self knowledge But what does it come to And do we actually have it Anti individualism implies that the thoughts which a person s utterances express are partly determined by facts about their social and physical environments If anti individualism is true then there are some apparently coherent sceptical hypotheses that conflict with our supposition that we have minimal self knowledge In this book Anthony Brueckner and Gary Ebbs debate how to characterize this problem and develop opposing views of what it shows Their discussion is the only sustained in depth debate about anti individualism scepticism and knowledge of one s own thoughts and will interest both scholars and graduate students in philosophy of language philosophy of mind and epistemology

Articulating a Thought Eli Alshanetsky, 2019 Articulating a thought can be astoundingly easy We generally have no trouble expressing complex ideas that we have never considered before though not always Articulating a thought can also be extremely hard Our difficulties in articulating thoughts pervade many aspects of philosophical inquiry as well as many ordinary situations While we may overcome some of the challenges through education and practice we cannot do away with them altogether And the hardest thoughts to articulate often come to us unbidden as we neither assemble them from other thoughts nor get them from any source of external information They can come from us freely and spontaneously and frequently we articulate them in order to find out what they are In many cases we would not bother articulating our thoughts if we already had this knowledge yet when we find the right words we can often instantly tell that they express our thought How do we manage to recognize the formulations of our thoughts in the absence of prior knowledge of what we are thinking And why is it that producing a public language formulation contributes in any way to the deeply private undertaking of coming to know our own thoughts In Articulating a Thought Eli Alshanetsky considers how we make our thoughts clear to ourselves in the process of putting them into words and examines the paradox of those difficult cases where we do not already know what we are struggling to articulate

The Limits of Realism Tim Button, 2013-06-27 Tim Button explores the relationship between minds words and world He argues that the two main strands of scepticism are deeply related and can be overcome but that there is a limit to how much we can show We must position ourselves somewhere between internal realism and external realism and we cannot hope to say exactly where

The Brain in a Vat Sanford C. Goldberg, 2016-06-13 The scenario of the brain in a vat first aired thirty five years ago in Hilary Putnam s classic paper has been deeply influential in philosophy of mind and language epistemology and metaphysics This collection of new essays examines the scenario and its philosophical ramifications and applications as well as the challenges which it has faced The essays review historical applications of the brain in a vat scenario and consider its impact on contemporary debates They explore a diverse range of philosophical issues from intentionality external world scepticism and the nature of truth to the
