Demand Planning Qad:

Novel Methods and Technologies for Enterprise Information Systems Felix Piazzolo, Michael Felderer, 2014-07-03 This volume presents the revised and peer reviewed contributions of the ERP Future 2013 conference held in Vienna Austria on November 12-13th 2013. The ERP Future 2013 Research conference is a scientific platform for research on enterprise information systems in general and specifically on core topics like business process management (BPM), business intelligence (BI) and enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems. Besides the scientific community, the event also addresses businesses developing, implementing and intensively using enterprise information systems. To master the challenges of enterprise information systems comprehensively, the ERP Future 2013 Research conference accepted contributions with a business as well as an IT focus to consider enterprise information systems from various viewpoints. This combination of business and IT aspects is a unique characteristic of the conference that resulted in several valuable contributions with high theoretical as well as practical impact.

AI in Manufacturing: Building Smarter Factories Dr. RVS Praveen, Brahma Mutya, 2024-10-29 AI in Manufacturing: Building Smart Factories provides a comprehensive exploration of how artificial intelligence is transforming the manufacturing sector and driving the development of smart factories. This book covers the full spectrum of AI applications in manufacturing, offering insights into how AI technologies like machine learning, deep learning, robotics, and IoT can enhance productivity, safety, and operational efficiency. The book is divided into practical chapters that explore the core components of smart factories, including automation, predictive maintenance, supply chain optimization, quality control, and smart manufacturing systems. Each chapter provides both theoretical insights and hands-on guidance, demonstrating how AI tools can be integrated into existing manufacturing workflows. Real-world case studies and industry examples highlight how AI has already been applied to optimize production, reduce downtime, and improve product quality in various industries, from automotive to consumer goods. This book also addresses the challenges of implementing AI in manufacturing, such as data integration, workforce readiness, and security concerns. It offers strategies for overcoming these hurdles, making it an invaluable resource for professionals aiming to leverage AI to build smarter factories and drive innovation in manufacturing processes. Whether you are an engineer, manager, or researcher, this book equips you with the knowledge to embrace AI in building the factory of the future.
