Negotiation of Identities in Multilingual Contexts Aneta Pavlenko,Adrian Blackledge,2004 This volume highlights the role of language ideologies in the process of negotiation of identities and shows that in different historical and social contexts different identities may be negotiable or non negotiable

Codeswitching on the Web Lars Hinrichs,2006-09-28 Based on a corpus of private email from Jamaican university students this study explores the discourse functions of Jamaican Creole in computer mediated communication From this participant centered perspective it contributes to the longstanding theoretical debates in creole studies about the creole continuum The book will likewise be useful to students of computer mediated communication the use and development of non standardized languages language ecology and codeswitching The central methodological issue in this study is codeswitching in written language a neglected area of study at the moment since most literature in codeswitching research is based on spoken data The three analytical chapters present the data in a critical discussion of established and more recent theoretical approaches to codeswitching Fields that will benefit from this book include interactional sociolinguistics creole studies English as a world language computer mediated discourse analysis and linguistic anthropology

Language and Identity across Modes of Communication Dwi Noverini Djenar, Ahmar Mahboob, Ken Cruickshank, 2015-03-10 This edited collection examines how people use a range of different modalities to negotiate influence and or project their own or other people s identities It brings together linguistic scholars concerned with issues of identity through a study of language use in various types of written texts conversation performance and interviews

Bilingualism and Social Relations J. Normann Jørgensen, 2003-01-01 Studies of the multilingual practices of Turkish speaking adolescents in North Western Europe The speakers use their different languages for a wide range of purposes getting their way creating a comfortable atmosphere saving face being polite showing respect showing disrespect scolding and in many other ways to administer their social relations The skills demonstrated by the young speakers are almost never taken into account by the majority societies

The Yearbook of South Asian Languages and Linguistics 2003 Rajendra Singh, 2004 South Asia is home to a large number of languages and dialects The considerable body of linguists working on this region have made significant contributions to our understanding of language society and language in society on a global scale Despite this there is as yet no recognized international forum for the exchange of ideas amongst South Asian linguists The YEARBOOK OF SOUTH ASIAN LANGUAGES AND LINGUISTICS is designed to be just that forum It brings together empirical and theoretical research and serves as a testing ground for the articulation of new ideas and approaches which may be grounded in a study of South Asian languages but which have universal applicability Each volume of this annual series will have four major sections I Invited contributions consisting of state of the art essays on research in South Asian languages II Refereed open submissions focusing on relevant issues and providing various viewpoints III Reports from around the world book reviews and abstracts of doctoral theses IV A forum for dialogue critiques comments and discussions reports on research activities and conference announcements In the words of the Editor in Chief other than excellence and non isolationism we have no agenda and no thematic priorities This pioneering series will interest all those in the fields of sociolinguistics language studies grammar literature and sociology

Syntactic Transfer, Contact-induced Change, and the Evolution of Bilingual Mixed Codes Anneli Sarhima, 1999 Comparative contact phenomena have excited growing interest among linguistic scholars in recent decades Yet there have been very few detailed case studies particularly in the area of syntactic interference The present study approaches contact induced syntactic change from the viewpoint of a single Russian modeled syntactic construction which is used to express necessity in Karelian The processes by which Russian features are entering Karelian through this construction are embedded in a broader context of codeswitching and other kinds of language mixing phenomena in bilingual speech communities in general The study employs current theories and models of bilingual language alternation particularly those produced by investigations concerned with syntax and grammar of codeswitched speech The Karelian Russian data are also discussed in relation of two recent models that have sought to explain the evolution of stable mixed languages in terms of gradual fossilisation of codeswitching patterns namely the Matrix Language Turnover model introduced by Carol Myers Scott and the Pragmatic codeswitching continuum introduced by Peter Auer Estudios de sociolingüística, 2006 □□□□, 2012-08 Proceedings from the Parasessions of the Chicago Linguistic Society's ...
