Global University Ranking Systems: Methodologies, Impact, and Repercussions Kayyali, Mustafa, 2025-10-15
Global university ranking is a powerful tool in shaping the higher education landscape and influencing student decisions. These rankings develop various methodologies that assess academics, faculty, and research to offer a comparative framework to evaluate an institution. This growing prominence, however, has sparked debate about their accuracy and equity with marginalized and diverse educational missions. Global ranking systems analyze their broad impact on universities and stakeholders and critically examine their long-term repercussions for higher education. Global University Ranking Systems: Methodologies, Impact, and Repercussions explores the intricate world of global university rankings and their profound impact. This book determines how rankings shape global perceptions, determining which universities gain international prestige and which struggle to maintain relevance. What is a university degree for? What can it offer to students? Is it only about getting a job? How can we measure the quality of an undergraduate degree? Paul Ashwin shows how, around the world, economic arguments have come to dominate our thinking about the purpose and nature of university education. He argues that we have lost a sense of the educational purposes of an undergraduate degree and the ways in which going to university can transform students' lives. Ashwin challenges a series of myths related to the purposes, educational processes, and quality of an undergraduate education. He argues that these myths have fuelled the current misunderstanding of the educational aspects of higher education and explores what is needed to reinvigorate our understanding of a university education. Throughout, Ashwin draws on his deep engagement with international research to offer an accessible and thought-provoking analysis of the nature of university education.
