Marketing the Wilderness Joseph Whitson, 2025-05-20 How outdoor industry marketing promotes an image of the wilderness as an unpeopled haven Marketing the Wilderness analyzes the relationship between the outdoor recreation industry public lands in the United States and Indigenous sovereignty and representation in recreational spaces Combining social media analysis digital ethnography and historical research Joseph Whitson offers nuanced insights into more than a century of the outdoor recreation industry's marketing strategies unraveling its complicity in settler colonialism Complicating the narrative of outdoor recreation as a universal good Whitson introduces the concept of wilderness to describe the physical legal and rhetorical production of pristine empty lands that undergirds the outdoor recreation industry

a process that further disenfranchises Indigenous people from whom these lands were stolen He demonstrates how companies such as Patagonia and REI align with the mining and drilling industries in their need to remove Indigenous peoples and histories from valuable lands And he describes the ways Indigenous and decolonial activists are subverting and resisting corporate marketing strategies to introduce new narratives of place Through the lens of environmental justice activism Marketing the Wilderness reconsiders the ethics of recreational land use advocating for engagement with issues of cultural representation and appropriation informed by Indigenous perspectives As he discusses contemporary public land advocacy around places such as Bears Ears National Monument Whitson focuses on the deeply fraught relationship between the outdoor recreation industry and Indigenous communities Emphasizing the power of the corporate system and its treatment of land as a commodity under capitalism he shows how these tensions shape the American idea of wilderness and what it means to fight for its preservation Retail e book files for this title are screen reader friendly with images accompanied by short alt text and or extended descriptions
