Netflix Guide:

Researching Subtitling Processes Anke Radinger,2025-07-31 Subtitling is almost as old as the motion picture itself It is a very specific form of translation that goes well beyond the transferring of written texts given that the source text the film is a complex combination of spoken and written text together with dynamic images music and sounds But how does one read a film in order to translate it In this volume Anke Radinger investigates what happens in a subtitlers mind especially in various working environments An example of one of these conditions is the introduction of innovative assistive language tools such as AI powered speech to text into traditional subtitling workflows Using methods like eye tracking and keylogging Radinger reviews computer or rather AI assisted subtitling processes practices and workflows while concentrating on aspects such as effort and quality Her work is a valuable contribution to subtitling process research SPR a young and greatly under researched subfield of audiovisual translation

From Networks to Netflix Derek Johnson,2018-01-03 Even as the television industry experiences significant transformation and disruption in the face of streaming and online delivery the television channel itself persists If anything the television channel landscape has become more complex to navigate as viewers can now choose between broadcast cable streaming and premium services across a host of different platforms and devices From Networks to Netflix provides an authoritative answer to that navigational need helping students instructors and scholars understand these industrial changes through the lens of the channel Through examination of emerging services like Hulu and Amazon Prime Video investigation of YouTube channels and cable outlets like Freeform and Comedy Central and critiques of broadcast giants like ABC and PBS this book offers a concrete tangible means of exploring the foundations of a changing industry
