Introduction

Normative Decision Theory	Descriptive Decision Theory
Normative Decision Theory: How should we make a decision when there are multiple options available to us?	Descriptive Decision Theory: How do we actually make a decision when there are multiple options available to us? What factors influence our decision-making process?

Normative decision theory is concerned with how the rationality ideal is reflected in the process of decision-making by providing a model of how we should rationally make decisions.

What do Normative Decision Theories include? What's Not?

- 1. Identifying a problem or other goal, defining the decision problem, and determining the relevant information.
 - identifying goals, constraints, a feasible region, & available info
 - 2. Identifying a set of alternative actions, representing the options in terms of a decision problem, and comparing them with the feasible options.
 - 3. Identifying a set of alternative actions or other options to be considered, and comparing them with the feasible options.
 - 4. Identifying a set of alternative actions or other options to be considered, and comparing them with the feasible options.
- Identifying a set of alternative actions is necessary with respect to a decision problem, but it is not a part of the decision-making process.
